Global Scale of English

Fast-track your learners' progress

The Global Scale of English (GSE) is the beating heart of the Pearson Connected English Learning Programs. Designed to build confidence, the GSE helps you understand where learners are on their unique learning journey with unparalleled clarity.

The GSE is the result of extensive expert research. It extends the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR) to assess different types of learner on a simple 10–90 scale.

With the GSE, pre-primary, primary, secondary and adult learners can pinpoint their proficiency in all of the four key language skills: speaking, listening, reading and writing. Teachers can then set personalised goals for every learner, guiding their next steps and accurately measuring their progress along the way.

It's the first of its kind. A truly global standard in English language learning.

Find out more about the GSE, get helpful resources and access the free teacher toolkit at pearsonenglish.com/gse.

Pearson English Connect

The new way to teach English

Pearson English Connect is a game-changing platform giving you the ultimate flexibility in English language teaching. Enrich paper coursebooks and increase your learners' motivation with games, extra activities and more available on the user-friendly digital platform.

Our mission is to make online teaching as effective as in-person. It's why we've made sure teachers can share content directly with learners and see their progress in real time, from which questions they're answering, to who is finished or struggling. Optimised for mobile and desktop, learners can participate in classes and complete homework wherever they are.

“Pearson English Connect (PEC) is a superior platform that adds value to our business because our learners are happy and make progress. My message to teachers is that you are doing your learners a disservice by not using PEC. Why would you want to use another platform when PEC is so much more engaging?”

Guadalupe Salazar,
Pedagogical Manager
Academia Education.

Formula

The formula for exam success.

Why choose Formula?

- ★ Features dynamic, engaging exam content for young adults.
- ★ Adaptable for the classroom or independent study.
- ★ Suitable for intensive preparation with flexible components.

They need to help learners stay motivated from behind the screen, and give personalised feedback in real time from afar.

One of the ways in which online learning differs from face-to-face instruction is that students may find it more difficult to stay motivated. In an online classroom, there’s less interaction with the teacher and less collaboration between students. Instruction is less focused on individuals, and lessons are not as personalised. Students are less likely to be taking notes or working in a coursebook, so there’s no physical evidence of their learning.

As a result, students may be less motivated and feel as though they’ve made little progress towards a successful exam. This is why it’s crucial for teachers to ensure students feel inspired to learn.

As a teacher, you can try to incorporate some of the ideas listed:

- ★ ease students into each class by asking how they are and talking about real-world topics,
- ★ build intrinsic motivation by encouraging students to set their own goals so that they become less dependent on teachers and start learning for themselves,
- ★ encourage students to collaborate when the teacher isn’t available in order to discuss tricky exam items,
- ★ give students reflection exercises, such as asking them to come up with three way to improve a certain task,
- ★ create a calendar of assignments or tasks for students to complete (with deadlines) so they see the progress they’re making,
- ★ make yourself available during virtual office hours to offer help, support and advice.

Independent learners are more engaged

Students who are actively involved in deciding what and how they learn are typically more engaged and motivated. As independent learners they display an increase in confidence, a higher level of awareness of their own abilities, and they also tend to improve their academic performance.

Developing independent learning is especially relevant when preparing students for exams, as they require a lot of work and motivation. Yet contrary to what you might think, independent learners also need support and direction from their teachers.

Gold Experience has a number of resources that can help you develop independent teens. Each unit has a dedicated section to help students become more independent learners: to self-reflect and give better feedback to peers, to understand themselves better as learners, their strengths and weaknesses, so they can set themselves realistic, useful, personalised goals. Speakout

Real English in your classroom!

Why choose Speakout?

Why challenge is good for building language

Speakout uses authentic material which really engages learners both cognitively and effectively. It is challenging for them—learning a language is difficult, and it’s really hard to understand fast spoken English.

Speakout supports them and builds their confidence in their ability to deal with spoken language. Learners enjoy the challenge, and they really enjoy the material because it is satisfying for them to know that the material hasn’t been written especially for the language classroom. It feels more real.

When teachers and students first start using Speakout, they often comment on this, saying that the course is more challenging than other courses at the level. We have found that ultimately both teachers and learners appreciate the challenge, that they feel better prepared for dealing with “the real world” than they would if they only had exposure to graded material. At the same time, within a level and a unit we vary the difficulty of texts so that some are relatively easily accessible to students at that level.

Our main focus is to get the students speaking and most teachers comment that their students talk a lot during the lessons (because they have something they genuinely want to speak about). They are given lots of opportunities to express their own ideas and opinions. Also, we try to give the learners really useful language, building their grammatical and lexical competence.

Speakout third edition is available on Pearson English Connect.

Teaching sub-skills, not just practising them...

Language is generally divided into two main areas: language systems (grammar, lexis, phonology and discourse) and language skills (listening, speaking, reading and writing). The latter of these can be further divided into sub-skills. These are things we do in our first language usually as subconscious processes.

For example, if we're listening to an airport announcement, we'll selectively listen out for keywords and numbers related to our flight (destination, time, flight number, gate, etc.), a sub-skill known as scanning. If we're reading a summary of a talk in a conference programme, we'll skim over the description to get a general idea of what it's about. Likewise, we know how to interrupt a conversation politely to join in.

These sub-skills are things we generally take for granted in our first language. However, when learning another language, it's easy to become overly focused on understanding all the language or using the right words and phrases. As a result, these sub-skills often get overlooked.

To truly develop these skills and sub-skills with our learners, we need to teach specific strategies to help them develop. By focusing on teaching strategies, skills and sub-skills, we can help our students become more confident and proficient language learners.

Roadmap is a journey and the final destination is fluent speaking and confidence.

Roadmap is available on Pearson English Connect.
